The CCIH Annual Conference
Sharing Best Practices and Christian Fellowship

CCIH’s annual conference helps us fulfill a critical part of our mission. Since its early days, CCIH has served as a resource for Christians working in global health, providing connections and opportunities to share experiences and best practices. While there are many groups focused on international health, CCIH is the only organization in the world seeking to unite all Christian health ministries—international and local—to promote global health and wholeness.

Ending Extreme Poverty:
The Challenge for Christians in Global Health

Our conference theme this year is how Christians can work to overcome extreme poverty. Extreme poverty and the inability to access care are at the root of health problems across the globe.

What are Christian organizations doing to provide opportunities to the poor? How can Christians work together to lift people out of extreme poverty to a more healthy and fulfilling life? We will explore these topics and more at the 2015 conference.

He defended the cause of the poor and needy, and so all went well. “Is that what it means to know me?” declares the Lord. (Jeremiah 22:16 NIV)

Conference Format

The conference is a blend of plenary and smaller breakout sessions featuring leaders in faith-based global health as well as representatives from government agencies and other partners who support global health programs. Time to network and make valuable connections is built into the schedule.

Sponsoring Attendees

CCIH invites and encourages students and developing country professionals to participate in the Annual Conference. To facilitate this, CCIH offers scholarships, which include a waived fee for registration and meals and a discount on lodging. In order to keep the registration fee amenable to other participants, CCIH needs support for the conference to help offset the scholarship and other conference costs.

Developing country professional and student scholarship sponsors will receive special mention in the printed program and during the conference.

Scholarships $500

DEVELOPING COUNTRY PROFESSIONAL SCHOLARSHIP $500

Your sponsorship will assist developing country professionals as they use this unique opportunity to celebrate and share their Christian faith, foster new contacts, and to apply what they learn to health care needs in their own countries.

STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP $500

Your sponsorship will assist students attend the conference and enable them to explore their Christian faith along with their calling to global health.
